I write in regard to the plans to build an asylum centre on MoD land near the small village of Piddington in Oxfordshire, near Bicester.

I strongly oppose this development. The original proposal was for 1250 men to be housed here, although I am now seeing reports of closer to 3000. Young men.

Surrounded by countryside where there are several small villages, this asylum centre presents a threat to all living near to it. It simply is not possible to keep those living nearby, 'safe'.

There are many young families in Bicester, and this centre will mean a huge influx of men, flooding the town. I believe a leaflet has had to be produced to let the asylum know that women are to be respected in this country. The need for this pamphlet speaks volumes.

This is not the right location for this centre. Please think again.
